ANNUAL MEETING BROCHURE INSIDE!

President's Message

Dr. Craig Oldham
President

WCDDA Members,

Another year in organized dentistry has begun. It is a privilege to be a dentist and work in these communities on Florida's West Coast. The WCDDA goal is to defend dentistry from the growing obstacles we face. Small business rules, insurance company challenges, and the proposal of poorly trained mid-level providers in Florida are not disappearing. Our dental association plans to improve our position as a valuable, independent health care provider.

The WCDDA also wants to help each member succeed. We work in an open, positive setting that is cherished by both young and seasoned dentists. We need help to maintain this standard.

Dentist members will strengthen our dental association by utilizing our FDA Services. Malpractice insurance, workers compensation insurance, and commercial property insurance are offered with high quality carriers for the lowest cost reasonable. Payroll companies add unnecessary fees to a state mandated rate - most likely you are paying too much! In the last two years, nine malpractice insurance companies were listed in state rehabilitation or receivership. This is shocking and isolates those doctors by dissolving tail coverage and true liability protection. Don't be fooled by low, low rates.

Thank you for your participation in the WCDDA. Remember to ask your colleagues for help, to contact the central office for advice, and to enjoy your member benefits. Florida's Mission of Mercy is April 24-25, 2020 in Jacksonville. It is a wonderful opportunity to serve and to feel sincere appreciation. The 2,000+ patients that are treated are all amazing, kind, thankful souls.

I will see many of you soon at the affiliate association meetings.

Please enjoy life. 🍷

Thanks,

Craig Oldham, DMD

The WCDDA would like to thank the following for their donations towards our successful raffle event held in conjunction with the summer meeting in Naples! If you're interested in donating to the Fund, visit wcdental.org.

FDA WELL-BEING PROGRAM PROVIDES CONFIDENTIAL HELP FOR DENTISTS, THEIR FAMILIES AND STAFF

DR. BARTON BLUMBERG

According to the American Dental Association's (ADA) statistics, 19% of all dentists will have problems with drugs or alcohol sometime during their careers. These numbers may have grown in the past few years due to the opioid epidemic. The fallout from this not only affects their health and well-being, but also that of their patients, staff and families. Ultimately, they can be in jeopardy of losing their licenses, their health or even their lives.

Alcoholism and addiction are diseases, just as diabetes, cancer and heart disease are. There is good scientific evidence that there is a genetic predisposition for addiction. All addictions affect the brain in the same way by stimulating the production of dopamine, which in turn stimulates the pleasure or euphoria centers. This repeated exposure essentially hijacks the brain in an individual with addiction potential and prevents them from making rational choices when faced with the consequences of using their drug of choice. Most of us have heard that we all have obsessive-compulsive behavior about something, but when it interferes with our routine activities of daily living to the point of creating unintended consequences, it can be considered an addiction, whether it is drugs and alcohol, gambling, sex, overeating, over-exercising, etc.

Part of the disease process is an individual's strong denial that they have a problem. Sometimes the first ones to notice that they have a problem are staff or family members. They might see some of the warning signs: the doctor showing up late or completely missing unscheduled days off. They may show physical signs, such as unusual irritability with patients or staff or slurred speech. However, staff or family members are reluctant to confront the individual for fear of repercussions.

The Florida Dental Association's (FDA) Well-Being Program has been in effect for almost two years and is a non-threatening way for dentists to get help with their illness. Again, this is a disease and we would not expect someone close to us not to seek help for cancer or heart disease. So why should they not receive help for their addiction? There are many psycho-social aspects to this disease. But, the individual suffering from this disease doesn't have the ability to fully see and understand that they have a problem, so it's up to those closest to an addict to help them get treatment.

A recovering addict has a unique first-hand perspective on treatment and recovery. As someone in recovery for more than 12 years, I can tell you that I've had the opportunity to work with many others, including health care professionals, who have suffered and then recovered from this disease. I can tell you that our lives are so much better in every way. I'm grateful that my family and career have survived my addiction. I have wonderful relationships with my family, patients and staff in ways that I never could've dreamed possible — even better than before my addiction problems. Every day, my personal growth, health and peace of mind is incredible and is something that I wish everyone could enjoy. When I first came into recovery, I was told that alcohol and drugs were only a symptom of my disease. Although it may be hard for others outside of the recovery process to understand, I can tell you that it is absolutely true!

The FDA Well-Being Program is a project under the Council on Ethics, Bylaws and Judicial Affairs. This program is designed for a dentist or their staff and family to contact a trusted source in recovery who understands dentistry and its difficult challenges. The conversations can be on an anonymous basis and will always be kept confidential. Doctors are not required to give their name or membership information, and there is no stigma or judgement attached to doctors or their loved ones who reach out to the well-being consultant. These communications also are protected as non-discoverable.

There is no need to suffer the consequences of addiction to your health, your patients, your family or your license. The hardest part is admitting you have a problem! From then on, help is available. Any dentist in recovery who would like to be on this committee, or anyone who needs information or help can anonymously and confidentially contact me at 352.446.7910.

A Piece of Pinellas County Dental History

One hundred and fifty years of Pinellas County (Hillsborough until 1912) Dentistry is now a book "From Rocking Chairs to Robotics" by Jon Wilson, a historical journalist who captures the passion, talent, personalities and determination of a wide variety of dentists. Dentists who forged a primitive reaction to suffering into a noble profession with the highest ethical standards to achieve community oral health. Time has proven that as the mouth is healthy so is the body. Dentists are Medical Specialists and their civic efforts to improve physical health are unequaled in the medical field, which has too long ignored the contribution of dentistry to the science of health.

Hopefully, our new generation of dentists will relish the stories and be inspired by 'the old guard' on our "founding fathers" who sacrificed monetary gain and fame for integrity in being an advocate for their patients in the face of the economic pressures. The book will make you proud you are a dentist, belonging to an unusually gifted association. The battles that have been fought will be fought again to keep commercialism, and industry control at bay while at the same time preventing government intrusion that impairs doctor/patient relationships. The book will equip our grandchildren dentists with the knowledge and fortitude to take dentistry into a desirable intentional future. Our great history should be a sellout. Hope everyone of us will want the pride of our profession on our office bookshelf.

Dr. John Harrison with the spirit of Dr. Chuck Martin.

In Your Golden Years? Ready For Retirement?

Take the NAP Test...

The West Coast District Dental Association recognizes that many members will be considering retirement or transitioning their practices. To that end, we have developed the Near-end Aptitude Potential (NAP) test. To find out your NAP potential, answer the questions below. If you need the large-print edition of this test, skip it and go straight to "bed."

A.) A Denture Flask is:

1. a pink plastic cup with a hinged lid attached to sneak Jägermeister into Gator gridiron games.
2. a thin, hollowed-out, vacuumed vessel usually with a narrow neck, much like "Twiggy."
3. a heavy, Hanau three-piece bronze thing used two times and now in the corner of a dark dental cabinet next to your P.K. Thomas tools.

B.) P. K. Thomas:

1. is the name of a popular tank engine that hangs out with Henry, Gordon and Sir Toppham Hat.
2. was a 19th century American showman remembered for his traveling circus and invention of the English muffin.
3. was brother to Seth the clockmaker and designer of flared-tip waxing tools used to flow molten wax and burn scars into the left thumb of the user.

C.) Nuva is a:

1. a contraceptive ring worn by a bride on the "ring" finger of her left hand to discourage marital relations.
2. a cataclysmic nuclear explosion caused by the accretion of hydrogen on the surface of a dwarf star collapsing to form the largest independent university in southeastern Florida.
3. Curing Light unit introduced by Dentsply/Caulk in the 1970's used by "Dr. Goldfinger" to hemi-sect James Bond, as in "No, Mr. Bond... I expect you to die."

D.) A "turn-key" is:

1. the keeper of the keys to a prison, a jailer or the dean of a dental school.
2. Something ready for consumption, especially when bundled with separate but required materials, as in "turnkey and gravy."
3. Primitive yet popular dental extracting device for removing the top half of mandibular molars.

E.) What do the names Weber and Ritter mean to you?

1. Those are the names of an outdoor barbeque grill designed by a famous bowler and that lucky guy with the "thigh-master" girl on television's "Three's Company."

2. I don't know what they did, but they go with "Andrew Lloyd and Tex."
3. Those are the brand names of the olive-green dental equipment in your office.

F.) What is the number of digits in your Florida Dental License?

1. Six
2. Five
3. Four or less, or back then we just called each other by first name.

G.) A squeeze cloth is:

1. from a popular song, as in, "Momma's got a squeeze cloth, daddy s' gonna sleep tonight."
2. a loose, woven, cotton cloth used in cheese making, such as to press edible cheese curds into something inedible, like tofu.
3. circular, linen cloth to compress dental amalgam into a manageable solid ball to be packed into the end of a mussel-loaded rifle as ammunition.

H.) Minikin:

1. are diminutive dress models in store front windows.
2. are small relatives of mine in West Virginia.
3. is a pin system to retain restorations and boost radio reception from WMOD in Fort Wayne, IN.

I.) There was a time when your patients would say:

1. "My old dentist used to clean my teeth."
2. "Why are you putting on gloves?"
3. "Where is that spit sink?"

J.) The technique that best describes the first way you placed a Class II composite is:

1. using a disposable compule with a self-etching, self-priming, self-tax paying, multichromatic composite material, overload the entire tooth in a giant blob and have your assistant cure the material with a light from the hallway. Entire process takes 30 seconds.

2. carefully cover every morsel of dentin using a gummy, two-mix calcium hydroxide, wait to dry, place saliva mimicking conditioner on enamel, rinse with sterile water for three minutes, dry with special desiccating dryer, layer in material like a mother mud-dobber wasp ½ mm at a time between one minute cures using a Lucas light saber while staff and patient cower behind an amber face shield.

3. scoop brown base material out of small, plastic jelly jar and hand mix on a paper pad with an equal glob of white catalytic goop. Use a Chinet® knife to gently glum the sticky glop into your “toileted” preparation. Handhold the patient, matrix and material absolutely motionless for five minutes until the material is set. At this point the finished restoration will stick to your gloveless finger and fall out. Place gold foil instead.

Add up your score for your NAP number.

Less than ten shows you are a candidate for an invitation to the New Dentist Reception at the West Coast District meeting. Numbers between 10 and 25 indicate the need to take the additional Career Adjustment Test, or CATNAP. Numbers approaching 30 should also consider the Delayed Irreversible Route Test, or DIRTNAP. Numbers above 30 indicate the need for the large-print addition of this test.

So, when to retire? It depends on your age. Interestingly, in a study by the ADA, dentists younger than 40 years of age plan on retiring at 57.8, while dentists 40 and older plan to retire at 64.8. Clearly, there is quite a difference in thinking between the new dentist and those dentists with high NAP numbers. Apparently, at age 40 dentists start enjoying dentistry so much they never wish to retire or (more likely) their debt doesn't allow retirement. Not sure what the plans were of those folks older than 64.8.

When my father retired from dentistry, he spent the majority of his career standing up, hunched over a patient and cuspidor. Working alone, he was a dental army of one. Even when he cast his own crowns in a hand casting sling and used real Novocain in a football inflation needle, he considered it the Golden Age of Dentistry.

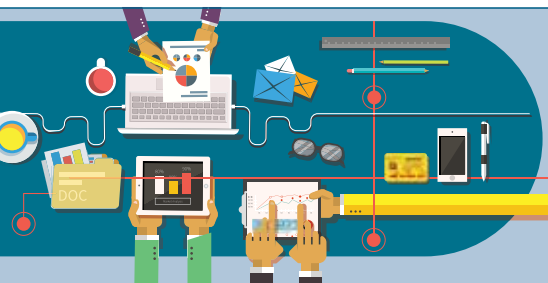

Plan early and retire on your own time. So, what if your NAP number is high. But be sure to make the “Golden Years” part of your Golden Age.

Helpful resources pertaining to retirement, closing/selling a dental practice can be found here, floridadental.org/member-center/faq.

5 QUICK EMAIL TIPS TO KEEP YOU OUT OF TROUBLE

1. Never assume that an email is from whom it says it is from. Email can be – and is – easily “spoofed.” A spoof is an email that looks like it came from someone you likely know.
2. Never blindly click links in any email. No matter if it is from someone you know, your bank, Apple, UPS, FedEx or even your system administrator, you can hover over the link and likely see it is not what it seems to be. If you have a question, call the person or use a separate method to communicate with a company to verify before taking any action. Attachments also can be corrupted, so be extremely cautious of those as well.
3. Never send information like passwords, your Social Security number, bank information or any other personal data via email. You don't know who sees it on the other end and potentially while in transit. Unencrypted email is easy to access, even without your email being hacked. Suffice it to say, your email can be “overheard” – similar to someone standing at your door while you are on the phone.
4. Be extremely cautious when using “Reply All” and forwarding email strings. There may be conversations in the thread that others don't need to see or may be proprietary. It also may have unintended consequences for other users who use “Reply All” back and didn't notice all the people on the email.
5. Often, email can carry a certain tone even if you didn't mean for it to, so take great consideration before clicking send. It is the same as what you say out loud – once it's out there, you can't take it back – and in electronic form, it lives forever.
